

Published based on I just bought a cat condo how can I get the old cats scent off it?

I just bought a cat condo how can I get the old cats scent off it?

I just bought a slightly used cat condo for my kitten. I of course made sure to ask the previous owner if her cat was sick in anyway and she said no. SO now I have this huge cat condo and my kitten smells the old cat and is afraid of it. What can I do to clean it and make my kitty love it?
Or is there anything I can do to make my kitty less afraid of it?

Hi Krissy...consider a couple ideas:

(1) Nature's Miracle Just for Cats is an enzyme neutralizer to remove all odours rather than cover them up it neutralizes them.

(2) catnip to rescent the cat condo and entice your little kitten. Most young kittens don't respond to catnip until they are older than 6 months.

Generally time is the best way to help a cat get acclimated to a new piece of cat furniture or anything new as some cats are not comfortable with changes. By playing with your kitten's favourite toys nearby the kitty condo and then closer towards it will also help speed up the comfort level. This is the technique we use to help our exotic cats become comfortable with changes or introducing new objects in their environment.

You can also find this article published on I just bought a cat condo how can I get the old cats scent off it?, and on the tag pages cat condo, cat furniture, exotic cats, huge cat condo, i just bought a cat condo how can i get the old cats scent off it, kitty condo, kitty love, most young kittens, old cat, old cats.